Carranza's Reply to United States Note is Pacific

LABOR PLAYS ITS PART

Unofficial Diplomacy Said to Have Averted Armed Conflict Between U. S. and Mexico

Washington, July 5—The official text of General Carranza's note was sent to the State Department today.

Luis D'Antin, private secretary to Ambassador Arredondo, carried the communication to the State Department about 9:30 o'clock this morning, and left it with Mr. Lansing's secretary.

The note is signed by Aguiler, secretary of foreign affairs.

Carranza admits the reasonableness of the American demand for border protection, but at the same time points out that our troops on Mexican soil are a cause of friction.

He suggests their withdrawal and outlines a plan for better policing by Mexico on the border.

He says that the several points at issue can be mediated and suggests a plan.

The note is expected to pave the way for peaceful readjustment of the strained relations between the United States and Mexico. If so, it will reveal a remarkable bit of unofficial diplomacy.

There was a time, it became known today, when Gen. Carranza had framed and practically was ready to send a defiant reply to the demands of President Wilson. This was little more than a week ago.

Then the unofficial diplomats got busy. They include American and Mexican labor leaders and various persons sympathetic with the cause of labor in the United States.

IS U-BOAT IN BAY?

Believed by Some That Tug Is in Communication With German Undersea Craft

A special dispatch from Norfolk, Va., last night stated:

"Following the eighth day of the vigil of the Baltimore tug Thomas F. Timmins off the Virginia Capes, there is tonight a rumor that the little craft is acting strangely almost every night. These strange actions have again caused the circulation of a report that the long expected German submarine has arrived, and is in hiding semowhere in one of the infrequented deep water harbors of the Chesapeake Bay. After remaining on duty outside the Capes throughout each day, the Timmins as darkness approaches, enters the bay and disappears. The question now propounded is where does the tug spend the nights. Once or twice each week, she touches at Newport News or Norfolk coal piers for supplies, but remains only a few hours, at the best, and then disappears. Where the tug spends the remainder of the night, is an unanswered question and one that is puzzling newspaper men. After she leaves her station at the Capes or the local wharves, she is not seen again so far as can be learned.

"Some believe that she is in communication with a hidden German submarine somewhere in the bay Others believe she passes out to sea unobserved, where she communicates with the undersea boat. Still others say she anchors somewhere in Lynnhaven Bay, to be near at hand for the next day's vigil off the Capes. Tug owners declare her mysterious actions are costing $50 per day in fuel, supplies and wages. They do not believe this amount would be expended for so long a time searching a tow."

SAYS VILLA IS DEAD

Report Revived That Bandit Died From Gangrene

Declaring that he has positive information to the effect that Gen. Francisco Villa, the Mexican bandit leader, is dead and is buried in the vicinity of Vaquitas or Boquita, State of Chihuahua, Mexico, Dr. Atl. editor of Accion Mondial, of Mexico City, wired to Gen. Carranza last night from Washington, urging that immediate steps be taken to locate the body:

"My information, which was hastily gathered while passing through El Paso came from two Villistas whom I met there, one of them called Gutirriz. These two men asserted that they were with Villa when he died suffering horribly from gangrene from a wound in his leg, and that they helped to bury him. They assert that his body can easily be found. It is buried, they assert, near Vaquitas or Boquita, in Chihuahua. I am satisfied in my own mind that they are telling the truth."

TROOPS STILL IN RICHMOND

Virginia's Trains Are Used By Maryland Militia

MAY LEAVE THIS WEEK

Movement of Soldiers of Old Dominion Delayed by Change in War Department Orders

Richmond, July, 5.— With every man fully equipped for the field and supplied with ten days rations, the departure of the First Virginia Regiment this morning was postponed because during the night the railroad equipment had been commandeered by the War Department for the movement of the Maryland troops to the border. The Seaboard Air Line Railway Company had twenty-one tourist cars ready in the yards adjoining the grounds of Camp Henry C. Stuart, for the transportation of the Virginia troops. Before morning all of them had been taken away to aid in the movement of the Marylanders.

Further orders as to troop movement had not been received last night, it was stated in the offices of the Adjutant-General. There is, however, all likelihood that the Virginians wil be entrained for Brownsville before the end of the week.

Major Allen Potts, camp quartermaster, besought the War Department, through Adjutant-General Sale to make proper preparation for the departure of the militia of the Old Dominion.

Flat cars are loaded with wagon transportation, and are ready for hauling. Every man mustered into service is supplied with personal equipment and camp supplies, and is prepared for marching orders. Colenel Delaware Skerrett, inspector-general, detailed here from the Department of the East, said yesterday afternoon that the State troops are in position to move. He stated that troops accustomed to transportation can be moved within the hour after orders. It will require several hours, however, for the local troops encamped here to load and make themselves ready for the seventy-six-hour journey to Brownsville.

Asked as to the personnel of the Virginia troops, Col. Skerrett stated that the material in men was fine and that the excellency of the men picked for service was due to Colonel A. N. Stark, who has made personal examination of more than 2,000 soldiers now mustered into service. "Every man examined by Col. Stark," stated Col. Skerrett, "is physically fit for field duty. The officers, as a class are excellent."

Four Die in Wreck.

Four men were instantly killed and a fifth was probably fatally injured early Monday night, when the Chattanooga-Washington fast train, which left Bristol over the Norfolk and Western Railway eastbound at 8 o'clock in the evening, ran into an automobile on a crossing 1 mile west of Abingdon. The dead are A. B. Klepinger, Samuel Whitney, Edward Walls and Stephen Nabe. Guy Woodwrad the only member of the party surviving, was hurried to the Abingdon Hospital. He was barely able to tell his name, and was unable to give any information concerning the tragedy. The party came to Bristol from Saltxille, Smith county

ALLIES AIM AT OPEN BATTLE

Expect Gigantic Engagement to Culminate Offensive

BOTH SIDES ANXIOUS

Teutons' Fate Now Believed to be Hinging on Bavarian Prince's Army

London, July 5—British troops made further progress at important points last night in heavy fighting between the Ancre and the Somme, General Haig, British commander in chief, reported today.

At Thiepval (northeast of Albert), two determined enemy attacks were repulsed, the enemy suffering heavy losses," said the official statement.

Paris, July 5—French troops last night resumed their great drive against the Germans on both side of the River Somme.

"During the night we carried a German trench line east of Curlu, north of the Somme," it was officially announced today.

"South of the Somme, following further gains, French infantry captured the Sormont farm, situated on the left bank of the river across from Clery. All the southern region between this farm and Hill 63, on the road between Flaucourt and Barleux, fell into the hands of the French

"The position at Belloy en Santerre (captured by the French Monday) was attacked by the Germans during the night. They captured the eastern part of the village, but were afterward ejected by a counter attack.

"The Germans are still holding part of the village of Estrees (southwest of Peronne), where the struggle is most violent. All German counter attacks broke down under French fire.

"The total number of unwounded prisoners in our hands thus far is 9,000. The number of guns captured is yet unknown. A single French army corps, operating south of the Somme, captured sixty guns."

Paris, July 5—The vastly important fact of the Picardy offensive, which is not apparent from the surface indications, is that General Joffre thanks to the deathless Verdun stand and the Somme drive, has forced the Kaiser's western legions into five distinct armies.

This means that General von Falkenhayn has found it necessary to prepare for the moment when open battle shall decide whether he stays in France or seeks behind the Rhine refuge or destruction.

Half a million men, commanded by the Bavarian Crown Prince, are trying to stem the Franco-British attack. At least another half million under the Imperial Crown Prince are committed to the life and death struggle on the Meuse. The remaining three Teuton armies are:

The Duke of Albert, of Wurttemberg's force, including all the German marines, facing Ypres; Von Heeringen's army, holding the centre line in Champagne, and the Landwehr and Landsturm formation in the Vosges and in Alsace.

The cream of the German armies as regards quality and numbers, therefore, is fighting under the eyes of the two crown princes, heirs of the Prussian and Bavarian houses.

"It is significant," said the informant, "that the dynastic sections should emerge as the leaders at this supreme moment of the war. The Bavarian Crown Prince's army is the only section of the German forces on the western front that has not passed through the Verdun furnace. It has been held in readiness to meet the Franco British stroke. If the Allies shatter it the moment for the general German retreat will have been sounded, for the Imperial Crown Prince's badly mauled army is not in condition to retrieve the disaster farther north.

"We have forced the Germans to echelon their armies in deep columns They can no longer carry out their trench warfare as previously, for they have not sufficient men.

"In the Picardy region half a million troops are extended for 100 miles, giving three men to the yard which is open fighting density.

"The moment is not far distant when the Bavarian Crown Prince's line will be torn so thin that he will be compelled to muster his troops for a gigantic pitched battle, which will prove the crowning point of the offensive.

"Already his losses have been so heavy and the situation has become so critical that, we know, the general emergency reserve for the whole western front, which can be employed only at the Kaiser's orders, has been rushed in autos from Cambrai to the Picardy front.

"These reserves consist of two Prussian Guard divisions."

ROOSEVELT FOR WAR.

The Colonel Says He Will Take Part in the Fighting—Makes a Speech.

Oyster Bay, N. Y. July 5.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt declared for war with Mexico yesterday. He practically issued a call to arms for the military division he is organizing to be offered to the government whenever hostilities begin.

To five thousand citizens whose patriotism had been aroused to a degree of frenzy, and later to the officers and crew of the warship Baltimore, the Colonel said:

"If what has happened for three years in Mexico is peace I should prefer war as more peaceful. If there is war I shall go. I will give the young men of Oyster Bay and Nassau county a chance to make good. I cannot ask them to do anything I and my sons won't do."

Cheers greeted this announcement. Quite as uproarious was the demonstration when the Colonel resumed:

"I won't take married men with families dependent upon them. It is an outrage that a man whose wife and children are dependent upon him should be compelled to go."

The Colonel had emphatically declared when invited to participate in the fourth of July ceremonies that he would not speak. But the unprecedented throng and its American spirit got the better of him.

Frederick R. Coudert had just finished an address assailing Mexico as a "neighbor which had murdered American citizens and destroyed and confiscated American property" and declaring Oyster Bay "the center of the universe because Colonel Roosevelt lives here," when Commodore Howard C. Smith, chairman of the day begged the Colonel to talk.

RUSSIANS STILL ADVANCE

Blew Up Buildings and Cause Havoc In Hungary

London, July 5—Russian cavalry patrols have advanced from Kimpolung in Southern Bukowina over the passes of the Carpathians into Hungary, according to a wireless dispatch received here from Bucharest.

The patrols made their way over the passes from Bukowina and down into Hungary on Tuesday, it is said The raiders blew up buildings containing stores of food and munitions, and cut telegraph wires. A sensation has been created in Budapest, the capital of Hungary, by the news that the invaders are actually on Hungarian soil.

Russian victories at Kolomea, near the foothills of the Carpathians in Galicia, and at Baranovichi, 300 miles farther north are reported in the official Russian statement issued at Petrograd today.

Two lines of the enemy were pierced by Russian attacks northeast of Baranovichi, and the battle is still raging. The capture of 72 officers and 2,700 men, besides 11 cannon in this region, is announced. Russian aeroplanes also dropped bombs on the Baranovichi station.

Quarrels; Then Takes Life.

With a photograph of her sweetheart in one hand and a rubber tube attached to a gas stove stightly clasped in the other, Miss Julia Ethel Barker, was found in the kitchen of her home in Norfolk Tuesday morning. She died 15 minutes later. Miss Barker had a quarrel with her sweetheart at Ocean View Sunday night and wept while en route home with her sister, Mrs. J. M. Archer, with whom she made her home. Mrs. Archer said her sister had also been despondent because of ill health.

RAIN HINDERS BRITISH DRIVE

Germans, Aided By Reinforcements, Contest Every Yard

SANGUINARY FIGHTS

Battle From Trench to Field—French Take More Villages, But Lose Thiaumont

London, July 5—The two British official dispatches, record little change in the situation on the British front. They show that the Germans have brought up strong reinforcements from other parts of their line and are stubbornly contesting every yard of the British advance.

Torrential rains yesterday, however, hampered the offensive operations and the British action was confined mostly to consolidating the ground already won.

The French have captured two more villages and are on good road to Peronne. But there is yet no decrease in the violence of the German attacks in the Verdun region.

Dispatches from German war correspondents indicate the realization that the Central Powers are losing the initiative, which their favorable position on the interior lines enabled them to hold throughout the long course of the war. Moreover, in commenting on the enormous resources in munitions and war material the Entente Allies have been able to pile up through the wearying months of preparations, they equally recognize that a profound change has occurred in the relations of the belligerents.

Simultaneously with the opening of the Anglo-French offensive, the Russian armies are again attacking on the whole length of their front. An entirely new offensive has been opened against Prince Leopold's Bavarian forces in the region of Baranovichi, where the Russians have pierced the German lines at two places, while the Italians are maintaining strong pressure along their entire front.

The British newspapers consider that these events prove that the moment of the "the great squeeze" has at last arrived, and not since the war began have hopes run so high. Nevertheless, almost every British correspondent on the western front warns against being oversanguine, and daily reiterates that the progress must necessarily be slow and methodical.

Up to the present the Anglo-French captures in the battle of the Somme total more than 14,000 prisoners, 12 heavy guns and 28 field guns. This booty represents for the man in the street a very satisfactory result of a little over three days' fighting.

The battle rages on such an extended front that the correspondents find difficulty in sifting the main currents of the operations. The Associated Press correspondent in a pregnant phrase, records what is perhaps one of the most significant features, when he notes "the amazing change from trench-tied warfare to that of an army in progress."

London, July 5—"Only German soldiers in open field formations now stand between the French and the river Somme," said Maj. Gen. F. B. Maurice referring to the part of the river which flows northward to the east of the sector along which the French have made their greatest gains. "The last of the enemy's defensive works in that sector have been captured by our allies."

Negro Killed in Duel.

Willie Jones, colored was killed and Willie Briggs, colored was shot through the cheek Tuesday afternoon in a pistol duel fought between Jones and Sam Carter, alias Sonny Carter, on Main street in Richmond. Jones died in his tracks, his hot revolver still grasped in his hand when he was reached by a policeman. Carter fled from the scene as soon as he saw Jones fall, and has not been captured.

SPENT A QUIET FOURTH

Independence Day Observed as a General Holiday in Alexandria and Vicinity

Numbers of Alexandria's residents are returning home today from short vacations and trips lasting over the Fourth of July. Large crowds who spent yesterday at nearby excursion resorts on the Potomac and points in the neighboring country returned home last night and the excursion steamers were crowded to their fullest capacity. Hundreds visited Washington during the day in automobiles and on the electric cars to view the various celebrations taking place in Washington during the day, and Alexandria was especially well represented in the huge crowd that witnessed the fireworks display on the Monument grounds last night.

Large crowds of tourists visiting Alexandria during the day kept scores of guides at the various places of historical interest, such as the Carlyle House, the Masonic Temple and Christ Church, busy during the entire day. Mount Vernon on the Potomac was the objective of many tourists passing through this city.

But few violations of the regulations against the use or sale of noisy and dangerous explosives and fire crackers occurred. There was a general suspension of business throughout the day and banks, city and government offices observed the day as a legal holiday.

RECKLESS DRIVING

Buggy and Auto Collide on Alfred Street and Child's Arm is Broken

Charles Smith and Julia Quarles, both colored, were haled into police court today to answer a charge of reckless driving and disorderly conduct and abusive language to policemen. The two were riding in a buggy last night on Alfred street, between King and Prince and were struck by an automobile driven by Theodore Ale, who lives in Duke street extended. There were several machines driving by the horse and buggy, which was being driven by the Quarles woman, and she was on the wrong side of the street. In the smash up the buggy and the car both sustained damage and a little child seated in the buggy with Smith and the Quarles woman had its arm broken. Smith, according to the officer, who made the arrest, was drunk and after the officer had come on the scene, the colored woman used abusive language. In the Police Court this morning the woman was fined $10 and Smith $5.

In default of payment they were sent to jail.

PREPARE FOR HOSPITAL

Site for Structure at Northwest Corner of Duke and Washington Streets Being Made Ready

Work was commenced today on preparing for construction of the new hospital, the grounds at the corner of Duke and Washington streets, by Richardson and Burgess, contractors of Washington, to whom the contract for the building of the new Alexandria Hospital has been awarded by the board of trustees. A number of workmen have been stationed on the grounds surrounding the old residence of Edward L. Daingerfield and the outlying buildings and are now at work tearing down the outhouses and small frame structures occupying the rest of the space fronting on Duke street.

Ground will be broken for the erection of the new hospital the early part of next week, there being a bare possibility, however, that, if the surrounding buildings are torn down quickly enough, ground will be broken within the next few days or before next week.

According to the plans of the trustees and the architect, Waddy B. Wood, of Washington, the new structure will face Duke street, at a distance of about forty feet from the pavement, and the front side will extend the entire length of the square to be bounded on the east side by Washington and on the west by Columbus street. The Daingerfield residence, stripped of a small back wing and a number of small surrounding buildings will be used as headquarters for nurses and the attending physicians.

GOSPEL TENT MEETINGS

Evangelist Gibson Continues to Interest Large Congregations

The meetings which were begun in a tent on the west side of Washington street, near Cameron, a few weeks ago are still interesting to the many who attend. Evangelist Gibson conducts these services and delivers the address. His theme on Monday night was "Sin", which he handled in a practical manner, referring to many passages in the Bible which speak of human shortcomings, and appealing to all who realize their dereliction to look to the Lamb of God which taketh away the sins of the world. There were no services last night, but the tent will be open again tonight, at which time the evangelist will speak on "Preparedness."

THE CASE OF HETTY GREEN.

Until we know what Hetty Green has done with her fortune of one hundred millions or more, it is too soon to pronounce a final verdict on her. It may be that behind her apparently sordid parsimony, her unfeminine hardness or lack of sympathy, there was a great purpose. If humanity and progress were designed to be the beneficiaries of her labors, we can pardon the dedication of her energies to a great ultimate object, and the ruthless putting aside of everything which interfered, even in the slightest degree, with the realization of a great aspiration.

But if there was nothing of all this in her thoughts, if she was the essentially what she seemed, she was the poorest and not the richest woman in the world. The Baltimore Sun suggests, what a chance she had and what a chance she threw away! Some men become the sort of atrophied thing that Hetty Green appeared to be, but such specimens are rare among masculine money-makers. The kings of Wall street and of finance may squeeze the unfortunates who get in the push, or may rob the public by clever schemes and combinations; but, at their worst, their blood usually remains red and warm, and the offset their business greed by generous and kindly actions. It seems peculiarly unnatural when a woman divests herself of all the tenderness and sympathy which belongs to her sex and develops into a mere human shark, bent wholly on swallowing everything, big and little, that she can reach, absolutely devoid of bowels of mercy and compassion. The wonderful thing about Hetty Green, it seems to us, is not that she demonstrated that a woman could match wits with the sharpest brains of the sharpest city in the world, but that a woman could so transform herself as to eliminate from her nature every womanly impulse and attribute. Women have made their way "many a time and oft" before this into the ranks of the immortals through intellect and character, but few of them are remembered because of their superlative meanness and because of the absence of every lofty impulse.

And yet in all the columns of anecdotal reminiscence of Hetty Green not a single incident of womanly softness and goodness is recited. Innumerable stories are told of her sharpness, of her financial genius, of her niggardliness, of her severity to those in her power, but we have not seen a single thing to how that she had a heart for the suffering and the sorrowful in the great city where she worked so long, and where suffering and sorrow are to be met every day on nearly every street. When Dickens drew his picture of old Scrooge in his "Christmas Carol" it seemed an impossible creation of exaggerated fancy. Yet here in real life in these modern days was apparently a real feminine Scrooge, and one who, we all feel, would have snapped her fingers in derision at any sentimental efforts to lead her back to a sweeter, more human view of life.

We hate to say things like this about a woman, and we hope that we shall be forced by the disposition of her great fortune to retract them.

RUSSIA'S GREAT GENERAL

The North American Review says General Brusiloff was one of the few men in Russia firmly convinced several years ago that the war must come and come soon.

Within a few days after the declaration of hostilities General Brusiloff and General Ruzsky were across the frontier; and, while the equally rapid advance of General Samsonoff and General Rennenkampf, in the north met with disaster, Ruzsky and Brusiloff gained striking successes, carrying their armies forward to the passes of the Carpathians General Brusiloff is one of the few generals of the Allies who for a full year was continuously on enemy soil. He never lost a battle, and when the dire failure of ammunition forced the retirement of the Russian armies and brought about the loss of Warsaw, it is on record that not for an hour did Brusiloff lose his serenity and faith. But he is determined now to win back every foot of land then lost —and more— and the spirit of the man is expressed in his recently reported words as he sent the correspondents to the rear. "You will learn of the Russian advance from Austrian bulletins."

General Brusiloff is a master of military science, who has learned all that can be learned from his allies and his enemies. He has taken part many times in the grand maneuvers on the plains of France, where stern battle now rages; he has stood beside the German Emperor and watched the spectacular development of immense cavalry charges. And, before the war, he practised ceaselessly the handling of the largest bodies of troops in those great Russian maneuvers into which he put much of the rigor of war. It was noted in these contests among the Russian fields and forests that General Brusiloff always seemed to know what his opponents had in mind to do and took the needed measures to turn his flank—an art he has not lost in real war.

SERENE FOURTH OF JULY

Independence Day was celebrated generally in Alexandria not only as a sane and safe holiday, but decently and in order. No accidents are reported, and there were but few cases of disorder, and they of a nature likely to occur at any time. The day was observed in outings, and many private picnic parties were formed, while a certain percentage patronized the excursion steamers. All reached their homes in as good cheer as when they left. It was not so, however, in a few other places in Virginia. Sad drowning accidents occurred at and near Richmond. A father and his little girl perished in the sight of other members of the family, while a father had to stand by and see his little son drown, he being unable to render any assistance to the unfortunate youth.

Dispatches from the main cities of the state are to the effect that yesterday was spent quietly and without the disorders which so often mar Independence Day. The pastimes were of the safe and sane variety, dangerous explosives being generally ignored, families enjoying their relaxation amid nature's scenery or in gatherings in their homes where they partook of the cheer incident to the occasion.

POSING ON HIS RECORD.

Congressman Holland was made to face four men Monday who are candidates for his seat in Congress from Virginia. He met them upon the platform at Isle of Wight Courthouse. The Congressman's record was attacked fiercely, but Mr. Holland sat still and made no answer to the criticisms of his competitors.

Mr. Holland acted upon what is believed by the wisest observers to be the proper course, that is to for a public servant to allow his record to speak for him. If that fails to appeal to political opponents all the explanations that can be made will not convert one into a friend. Should Mr. Holland answer in a manner satisfactory to all unbiased people, those who would oust him will turn him over and over again in order to find some vulnerable part.

It has ever been thus. "He that's convinced against his will is of the same opinion still," is an old adage which carries the force of a volume.

A war between the Lilliputians was brought about over the grave issue as to whether eggs should be broken on the points or butts before being eaten. Equally as serious matters are often brought up when rival candidates appear on the stump.

UNITED STATES AND MEXICO.

The Gazette from the first, notwithstanding the intemperate talk and bellicose disposition of the thousands who participated in preparedness parades but who failed to show up when recruits were solicited, has believed that actual war between the United States and Mexico was unlikely. As time goes on our impressions are becoming more firm that the army speedily mobilized for service in Mexico will not be needed for at present, at least.

Hostilities between the United States and Mexico, already made unlikely by the withdrawal of Gen. Pershing's forces from their advanced positions in Mexico has been probably entirely averted by a note from General Carranza, which is conciliatory in tone and diplomatic negotiations wil doubtless ensue

The essential features of the Mexican note are the avoidance of a reiterated demand for the withdrawal of the American troops from Mexico and an invitation for diplomatic settlement of the question now in controversy.

NEWS OF THE DAY

It is officially announced that the British ministry of munitions now controls 3,916 establishments.

Thomas Flynn, 10 years old, son of Mrs. William Krouse, of Philadelphia, was killed in a Fourth of July accident at Glassboro, N. J., yesterday when a homemade cannon exploded.

The total Austro-Hungarian losses in killed, wounded and prisoners, are upward of 3,000,000. The Austro-Hungarian government has handed to the Spanish ambassador at Vienna the following table of losses. Killed or permanently disabled, 2,000,000; prisoners in Russian hands 1,000,000; prisoners in Italian hands, 40,000; and loss of officers, 29,000.

Victim of the juvenile conception, of the proper way to celebrate the Fourth of July, Dorothy Fry, of Dayton, Ohio, was shot above the left eye yesterday when a celebrator deliberately fired upon her with a rifle, The police say Richard Bickes, aged 15, fired the shot, and they ordered his parents to bring him into Juvenile Court to face a delinquency charge.

Tony Legatto, who was to have been hanged in Guelph, Ont., this morning has cheated the gallows. He cut his throat with the handle he had wrenched from a tincup. A great hole was cut in the jugular vein and it was but a short time before his death took place. Legatto was sentenced to be hanged for the murder of George Verneon on October 24, 1915.

Destitution, ill-health, and despondency are believed to have caused an unidentified white man between 35 and 40 years old, fairly well dressed, to commit suicide yesterday in the park a little east of the National Museum, Washington. The man selected the seclusion offered by a heavy clump of low shrubbery between the museum buildings and Seventh street to kill himself. Persons passing along Seventh street and through the park heard the shot fired that ended his life.

VIRGINIA NEWS

John Dickerson Drinard, 15 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Drinard, of Richmond was drowned Tuesday afternoon, while bathing in Swift Creek, Chesterfield county, about three miles from Petersburg, while his father was standing nearby. The accident brought a tragic ending to a family outing.

Alex Creasy, aged 72 years, the only companion of an older sister, Miss Frances Creasy, suffered an attack of vertigo Sunday morning in their isolated home, about 15 miles from Lynchburg, fell into an open fire and was burned to a crisp while his helpless sister looked on. The aged woman managed to hobble from one room to another and spilled a pail of water over the fire, which was spreading to the house, but she could not help her brother.

Chairman J. D. Buchanan and other members of the district Democratice committee of the Ninth District appear to have their minds made up that the State contest is to be strengthened by the nomination of a man of winning qualities, to represent the district in Congress. It is accepted as a foregone conclusion that whoever may be nominated by the Democrats will be opposed by Representative C. B. Slemp. Prominent among the men who are mentioned as possible candidates are E. Lee Trinkle, of Wytheville; J. Norment Powell, of Wytheville; H. G. Peters, of Bristol, and Judge John W. Price, of Bristol.

There was a cloudburst south of Harrisonburg, in the Burketown section, late Sunday afternoon. Streams swept over their banks and water stood four feet deep in the middle of the valley turnpike. Fifty automobiles were halted and had to be ferried by a big motortruck. Water ran into residences and wheat fields were like lakes. Hundreds of sheaves of harvested wheat were washed down the streams. Fences were carried away. Further south, near Mount Sidney, in Augusta county, hail destroyed gardens, fruit and field crops. The storm was severe throughout Rockingham and Augusta counties.

Five young men of Woodland, N. C., lie at a Suffolk hospital seriously injured, and one, perhaps fatally, as the result of an automobile accident at Beamon's Pond, two and a half miles from Suffolk on the Norfolk road, a car in which they were riding having gone over an embankment into the pond. The car was going at about 30 miles an hour, when it rounded a sharp curve before reaching a bridge. The driver was unfamiliar with the road, and the car, skidding over the embankment, pinned the occupants underneath.

SUNDAY'S BALL GAME.

Cardinals Defeat U. S. Marines by Score of 10 to 3.

The Cardinal Athletic Club nine Sunday defeated the U S Marine Corps team by the following score: Cardinals, 10; Marines, 3.

Eddie Thompson with his Pittsburgh smoke ball smothered the Fighting Sons of Uncle Same, only allowing them two scratch hits.

The Cardinals were handicapped by the absence of Merchant and Purdy whose positions were played by Albaugh and McLean in a most satisfactory manner, however.

Kid Deavers was the lad who started the trouble for the sea fighters, when he banged the ball to the right field in the fourth inning with two men on the bases, scoring two runs.

Conover behind the bat supported Thompson in grand style and made a hit with the fans.

Tommy O'Donnel hit the ball hard and timely and fielded his position without an error.

Jimmy Sweeney, Walter Allensworth and Tommy Degnan were the laddy bucks who by their lightning like fielding helped to win the game for the Cardinals.

Grant started to twirl for the Marines, but was sent to the showers in the sixth inning when the Cardinals scored four runs.Burns a south paw finished the game allowing two runs while on the mound. Parker and Mims on the infield played a pretty and fast game, while Williams, the big catcher, performed in big league style.

When Every Move Hurts.

Lame every morning, achy and stiff all day, worse when it's damp or chilly? Suspect your kidneys and try the remedy your neighbors use.

Mrs. R. H. Dawson, 409 N. West street, Alexandria, says: "My back was so stiff and lame that I couldn't do anything without great suffering. When I got down, it was almost impossible for me to straighten up. Sharp twinges often caught me in the small of my back and hips and I couldn't move until they eased up. In the morning my back ached so badly that I could hardly get out of bed. My kidneys were irregular in action and the kidney secretions caused me much misery. I felt all out of sorts and had no ambition. One box of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at C. W. Summers' Drug Store, put my kidneys in good working order and made my back strong.

ENTIRE FAMILY KILLED

Victims Mutilated and Home Destroyed by Mexicans

El Paso, Texas, July 5—Telling a story of harrowing experiences in which his entire family was murdered by American-hating Mexicans in his own employ, John Heathcote, an American, arrived here yesterday from the territory of Tepic, on the west coast of Mexico. Heathcote was section foreman for the Southern Pacific Railroad on its west coast Mexican line, and lived with his wife, his 14 year old daughter, and his 14 year old son in a box car home at an isolated point out of the city of Tepic.

Going home one afternoon from an inspection of his section he found the car topsy turvy, he said, and in one corner, in the midst of broken furniture, the mangled bodies of his family. Their legs and arms had been severed and the wife and daughter had been mistreated.

While he was still viewing the bodies he heard cries from nearby and looking out, saw his forty-one section men rushing toward the car bandishing axes, picks and rifles, bent, he supposes, upon his own murder also. He had a rifle in the car and a revolver in his belt. With these he opened fire and held the Mexicans at bay until dark, when he slipped from the house, applied a match to it so that the remains of those he loved might not be further subjected to the indignities of the Mexicans, and fled into the darkness.

For days, he says, he wandered, out of his mind, only being kept alive by the superstition of the Mexicans who fear to harm a crazy person. Finally he found himself at Mazatlan, where he caught a steamer for the United States.

Heathcote has been tentatively engaged by the United States army as a scout. He is a former United States soldier and is native of Texas.

The most novel political gathering the Norfolk section has known in many years took place at Isle of right Courthouse Monday, when four aspirants for Congress, including the incumbent, E. E. Holland, spoke from the same platform to a crowd of farmers. J. Peter Holland, who is one of the opponents of Congressman Holland, went after the record of Congressman Holland since he has represented the Second Virginia district, but the latter did not reply to the attack when his turn came to speak. J. Davis Reed, former Mayor of Portsmouth, a member of the eLgislature, declared that Congressman Holland had no record to speak of. He declared he had been in Congress for six years, but had accomplished nothing worth speaking of, Reed is supporting J. Peter Holland. Harry L. Maynard,, who represented the district for 10 years and J. Edward Cole both candidates in the forthcoming primary, made short talks.
